AlphaBet Soup Productions

Communication Arts, Speech, Theatre Education, Inc.

AlphaBet Soup Productions is a non for profit Children's Theatre Company, bringing their special brand of Fairy Tale Classics to the stage. Their troupe of Chicagoland adult actor's put a modern day twist to the familar stories with lots of audience participation. Age range is from pre-k to 5th grade, but there's plenty to make the older crowd smile, too! Taking the timeless classics and twisting them into fractured fairy tales is what AlphaBet Soup Productions does best!

Operating the company are co-producers, Susan Holm of Oak Forest, IL and Mark Pence of Wheaton, IL. They have produced original children's theatre productions since the fall of 1987. Their first show was an original adaptation of JACK AND THE BEANSTALK. Since that time over 17 original productions of shows and over 400,000 theatre goers from 2 to 92 have enjoyed a modern day twist to the familiar childhood of tales.

All of ABS shows are written or co-written by Mark Pence. (Also the Business Manager, sometimes director & set designer) Pence adapts these classic tales with material from today's headlines. He incorporates popular tunes, fads, TV shows and modern day references. "McDonalds", "Furbies", "Power Rangers" and other modern day children's icons have been spoofed in ABS productions. But fear not, there is always an underlying "moral to the story" in all the fun. His shows always stress the importance of family, friendship or standing up to the forces of evil.

Co-producer Susan Holm is the theatre's Artistic Director and responsible for the award winning costumes. She has an extraordinary flair for researching a time period and turning it upside down and making it fun for the kids. She also takes over in the director's chair and is in charge of the box office duties.

"Educators, parents, and media members all agree...ALPHABET SOUP is a real find." -H. Lee Murphy, Chicago Tribune.
